The Place Verte. From an early date Antwerp was one of the chief cities of Brabant, and it was at one time the largest seaport in the world. In the centre of this fine square stands the statue erected to commemorate the two hundredth anniversary of the death of Rubens—Antwerp's greatest citizen—whose busy and happy life ended on May 30th, 1640, but the fruit of his laborious days is the best monument of this great artist's fame.
